The 2008 Team Sarcoma Bike Tour is a Liddy Shriver Sarcoma Initiative project.

The 2008 Team Sarcoma Bike Tour will take us to the Danube Bicycle Path, one of Europe's most beautiful bike paths. We start in the Bavarian city of Passau and end a week later in Vienna, Austria. Most of the route is on well-marked, dedicated bike paths away from traffic, which makes this an excellent tour for families. Local guides will accompany us to explain the rich history and culture of the region.

Raising Awareness of Sarcoma and Raising Research Funds

Sarcoma is a rare and dangerous cancer. It affects both children and adults. Between 15-20% of all children's cancers are sarcomas and about 1% of adult cancers are sarcomas. The 2008 Team Sarcoma Bike Tour raises public awareness about this disease and the impact it can have on families, raises public awareness of the lack of young adults in cancer-related clinical trials, and raises money for sarcoma-related cancer research.

On July 12th, the participants forming 2008 Team Sarcoma will meet in Passau, Germany, to begin a bike tour along the Danube River that will take them into Vienna, Austria, on July 18th. The event is targeted to draw 50 cyclists including sarcoma patients, caregivers, physicians, friends, families, and those concerned about sarcoma. We anticipate cyclists from many countries to participate on this bike tour as "Sarcoma Knows No Borders".

The 2008 Team Sarcoma Bike Tour is part of an internationally coordinated set of events called the 2008 Team Sarcoma Initiative. This initiative will involve thousands of people worldwide and in the last few years has become an "International Sarcoma Awareness Week." People form local "Team Sarcomas" in their home countries around the globe and they cycle, run, walk, hike, swim, etc. on one or more of the days that the members of the "core" team are biking along the Danube. The media coverage of this effort will help make hundreds of thousands of people aware of this devastating and often deadly cancer. Such awareness can affect thousands of families and can aid in directing much needed funds toward research to find methods to diagnose and cure this disease.

The 2008 Team Sarcoma Bike Tour is being coordinated by Donauradfreunde ("Danube Bike Friends"), which started the first commercial bicycle tours along the Danube nearly 20 years ago. They are represented in North America by BikeToursDirect, which is serving as our primary liaison for the bike tour and is handling registrations and bookings.

Before reading the detailed itinerary ...

The Danube Bicycle Path is among Europe's most beautiful, with stunning river landscapes, picturesque villages and medieval towns, imposing castles and monasteries, and expansive vineyards. Most of the route is on well-marked, dedicated bike paths away from traffic. We start in a deep valley with craggy outcroppings topped with the ruins of ancient castles. Soon, the hills turn into the rolling vineyards of the Wachau region, dotted with medieval towns. As the river widens, flat pastures spread to the horizons, and we meander through farms and villages. From time to time we cross the river, over dams, locks and bridges and sometimes in small ferries that hold barely a dozen cyclists. We finish in Vienna, where we have a chance to see the city by bicycle. This is an excellent tour for families. Children's bikes, trailers, and trailer cycles are available.

Each day, Team Sarcoma participants have a choice of three programs: one designed for strong cyclists (SC), another for leisure cyclists (LC) and the third for those who would prefer to walk, hike, or take part in other activities (W). All team members come together for lunch, dinner and many activities. The group will be accompanied by three trained guides and two support vans. Cycling options are very flexible and support vans will be available to assist those who tire or need a bike repair, as well as to supply refreshments and snacks. Make sure to read the "Frequently Asked Questions" at the end of this brochure.

The detailed itinerary is meant to provide an overview of daily programs. Actual activities and times may vary.

You might want to arrive in Passau a day or two early as there are many things to see. The following quote is adapted from the online encyclopedia, Wikipedia: "Tourism in Passau focuses mainly on the three rivers, the St. Stephen's Cathedral (Der Passauer Stephansdom) and the "Old City" (Die Altstadt). With 17,774 pipes, the organ at St. Stephen's Cathedral was long held to be the largest church pipe organ in the world and is today second in size only to the organ at First Congregational Church, Los Angeles, which was expanded in 1994. St. Stephen's Cathedral is a true masterpiece of Italian Baroque, built by Italian architect Carlo Lurago and decorated in part by Carpoforo Tencalla. Many river cruises down the Danube start at Passau and there is a cycling path all the way down to Vienna. It is also notable for its gothic and baroque architecture. The town is dominated by the Veste Oberhaus and the former fortress of the Bishop, on the mountain crest between the Danube and the Ilz rivers. Right beside the town hall is the Scharfrichterhaus, an important jazz and cabaret stage on which political cabaret is performed."

It is located above the town of Melk on a rocky outcrop overlooking the river Danube. It has the rare distinction of surviving as an active Benedictine monastery continuously since its foundation. Melk also is the gateway to Wachau. Through vineyards and orchards you cycle past the wine-growing towns of Spitz, Weißenkirchen and Dürnstein to Krems. After reaching Krems, we'll enter it through its impressive Stone Gate. The 1000-year-old town is surrounded by vineyards and filled with historic buildings — including churches, monasteries and fortifications. It's also a lively town with cafés, shops and bistros. To get an idea of the culinary temptations, we'll enjoy a traditional vintner's dinner and a wine-tasting in the centuries-old wine cellar of a local winemaker. We will stay in Krems two nights.

The Wachau is well-known for its production of apricots and grapes, both of which are used to produce specialty liquors and wines. The Wachau was added to the UNESCO list of World Heritage Sites in recognition of its architectural and agricultural history.

Lodging in Vienna: Hotel Lassalle (★★★★)

Bike Routes: LC: 24 miles / 38 km; SC: 53 miles / 84 km

We start off the day with a train ride to either Heiligenstadt or Greifenstein, depending on if you are biking or not. Our common goal is to join together for lunch on the Danube Island. There are many recreational activities to engage in on Danube Island: swimming in bays along shallow beaches, hiking, jogging, cycling and skating along an extensive network of paths. You can either enjoy some of these possibilities or visit sites in Vienna.

Vienna is a marvelous city. The most historic section of Vienna, the Innere Stadt (Inner City), was once surrounded by a mighty city wall. The wall was removed in 1857, and the new space was used for a street around Vienna, today's "Ringstrassen" (ring roads). Imposing buildings, monuments and parks were created along these Ringstrassen, such as the Rathaus (town hall), the Burgtheater, the University, the Parliament, and the State Opera. The focal point of the historic center and the geographical and emotional heart of Vienna is St. Stephan's Cathedral, founded in the 12th century, whose 135-meter (443-foot) gothic spire towers over the city. The ornate Schönbrunn Palace was once home to the imperial family.

It is impossible to think of Vienna without thinking of Mozart. The Vienna Mozart Orchestra plays concerts with internationally renowned singers and soloists — all in magnificent historical costumes and wigs and creates a special atmosphere in Vienna's largest and most famous concert halls, like State Opera, Musikverein Golden Hall, Hofburg and Konzerthaus. Vienna has wonderful and accessible museums, a number of which are located in the Museumsquartier (museum quarter) in the former Imperial Stables, which were converted into a museum complex in the 1990s. It houses the Museum of Modern Art (Ludwig Foundation), the Leopold Museum (focusing on works of the Viennese Secession, Viennese Modernism and Austrian Expressionism), additional halls with special exhibitions and the Tanzquartier, Vienna's center for modern dance and performance. The Liechtenstein Palace contains one of the world's largest private art collections. There are a multitude of other museums in Vienna, including the Military History Museum, the Technical Museum, the Vienna Clock Museum and the Burial Museum. The museums dedicated to Vienna's districts provide a retrospective of the respective districts. You may very well want to stay on a few days in Vienna after the bike tour ends.

We will have dinner in the Hotel Lassalle followed by a tour in Vienna and ride on Vienna's famous Riesenrad, until recently the world's largest Ferris wheel.
